The increasing need for healthcare professionals creates an urgent requirement for trained medical scribes. Students who want to enter medicine early and follow premed or prehealth tracks should consider obtaining Medical Scribe Certification as their initial professional step.

ACMSO provides students with a state-of-the-art Medical Scribe training through its 2–4 week program. The course provides students with 240 interactive lessons and 93 real patient case scenarios and 20 clinical specialty-focused content to deliver practical healthcare experience.

The program at ACMSO uses physician-developed content to demonstrate authentic clinical operations. The program teaches you to write SOAP notes and document patient history and navigate EHR systems including Epic and Cerner and understand real-time clinical decision-making before your medical school application process begins.

The Medical Scribe course holds full CPD accreditation and includes optional CMAA certification through the National Healthcareer Association (NHA). The Medical Scribe certificate provides pre-PA students and high school students who explore early medical careers with a strong foundation for their future success.

Students can select between a 4-week bootcamp or a self-paced 12-week learning plan through flexible course options. Students gain access to materials 24/7 while participating in live weekly review sessions and extensive case-based learning which prepares them to succeed in actual clinical environments.

You can start the program at $45 per month while gaining permanent access to all course materials including video demonstrations and EMR practice templates and career toolkits.

Medical Scribe certification courses from ACMSO provide students with a competitive advantage in today's healthcare industry. The program helps students build clinical skills which enhances their medical or PA school applications while speeding up their healthcare career from the beginning.
